Paving Question Up and a Dilemma Presented-Mayor Wants Dog Law Enacted and Tells Why.

Dr. Marshall, of the East End, created quite a stir at the regular meeting of council last evening all the result of a motion recommending that section 116 of chapter 8 be altered to read. "The street commissioner shall be paid $75 per month for his services." The recommendation met the immediate approval of all but Dr. Marshall.

"Gentlemen, if you pass a resolution to that effect, said he, "you will do so in strict opposition to not only a city ordinance, but to a state law governing the question."

The subject then being up for remarks, one of the warmest councilmanic debates ever listened to was instituted. After several members had voiced their sentiments in favor of the question, stating that they thought it perfectly lawful to take the desired action, and if it were not lawful, steps should be taken to make it so. City Solicitor McGarry was asked for his opinion. He stated that upon a previous occasion he had explained the law on that point to council and they would well remember that he gave notification of its legality.

STREET CAR'S PLUNGE

The East Liverpool Street Railway company had a run of hard luck yesterday, inasmuch as there were two cars off the track, and both accidents happened when travel was the heaviest. One occurred yesterday afternoon, when a car jumped the track at the entrance to the Jethro switch, but it was not long until it was again placed on the rails.

The worst mishap, and one that came near beinig attended with seserious results, was when car No. 8, in charge of Motorman McDaniels and Conductor Wilbur Allison, westbound, jumped the track at the west end of Laughlin's pottery. That it did not go over the river bank is due to the fact that the ground was very soft, allowing the wheels to become buried. The car was filled with passengers and was running at the regular rate of speed. It is supposed to have jumped the track on account of a low rail.

All wheels were off the track and it required several hours to replace the car. Travel was inconvenienced considerably as a result of the accident, and this morning a force of men were placed at work repairing the roadbed at this point.

A few months ago a friend of Mr. Robinette was walking through the mountains of Kentucky and visited a place where a flerce battle once took place between the famous Hatfield-McCoy families. One of the first sights that met his eyes was a revolver of 44 calibre, and which is claimed to have been the property of Thos. Wintering in Colorado And Utah. The climate of Colorado and Utah has long been world famous, but it is only within recent years that attention has been given to the delightful winter climate of these states. Today physicians all over the United States send their patients to Colorado and Utah to escape the rigors of eastern winters and to benefit by her invigorating atmosphere and health-giving sunshine. It is not necessary to add an elaborate argument-the conclusion is selfevident and inevitable. The winter climate of Colorado and Utah on the whole presents advantages for the invalid and the pleasure-seeker that cannot fail to command attention.

An erroneous impression prevails that because the Rocky mountains have a high elevation the mercury in the thermometer drops lown below zero in the winter season and stops there, and that the snow mounts up with the altitude. The fact is that the average precipitation of moisture in the lowlands of the mountain region during the entire year is only 14.15 inches. With such average precipitation there is practically no danger of at a few points exposed to drifts and these points have been amply protected. MUD SAVED IT FROM GOING INTO THE RIVER.

The East Liverpool Street Railway company had a run of hard luck yes terday, inasmuch as there were two cars off the track, and both accidents happened when travel was the heaviest. One occurred yesterday afternoon, when a car jumped the track at the entrance to the Jethro switch, but it was not long until it was again placed on the rails.

The worst mishap, and one that came near beinig attended with seserious results, was when car No. 8, in charge of Motorman McDaniels and Conductor Wilbur Allison, westbound, jumped the track at the west end of Laughlin's pottery. That it did not go over the river bank is due to the fact that the ground was very soft, allowing the wheels to become buried. The car was filled with passengers and was running at the regular rate of speed. It is supposed to have jumped the track on account of a low rail.

All wheels were off the track and it required several hours to replace the car. Travel was inconvenienced considerably as a result of the accident, and this morning a force of men were placed at work repairing the roadbed at this point.

Review of Work of Seventyfifth General Assembly.

INNOVATION IN TAXATION.

Administration's Scheme to Readjust Burdens on the People.

LATEST LAWS CLASSIFIED.

In the Summary of the Long Drawnout Session of the Solons Will Be Found Propositions For Important Constitutional Amendments to Be Submitted to the Voters of Ohio and Some Radical Changes In the Existing Statutes.

Columbus, O., May 13.-The Seventy-fifth general assembly, one of the most remarkable sessions of the Ohio legislature, is closed and remains now but a memory; a pleasant one to some, bitter to many. The session has been a long drawn-out one, but the business it has accomplished, while not varied, is perhaps the most import- There is no provision made for the ant of any assembly in many years.

Besides a general revision of all the statutes of the state, the seventy-fifth general assembly has elected a United town, where their product is sold out-States senator, changed the entire taxation scheme of the state, placed a local option law upon the statute all the important general laws passed books, and submitted two proposi- by the seventy-fifth general assembly tions to the people of Ohio to amend their constitution.

The plan of taxation which was advocated in the last state campaign was made a reality. While the new scheme makes a radical change in many dians. ways, it remains yet to be seen whether or not the burden of taxation is really shifted from the shoulders of the farmer and small merchant or not. The general plan of both parties was to make the taxes upon small home owners as light as possible. To this end it was decided to place the burden of taxation for all state purposes upon the large corporations and the county and home taxes upon the county itself.

To this end three bills were introduced and enacted into laws: The Willis bill, the Cole bill and the Johnston bill. The Willis bill provides that all corporations authorized under the laws of Ohio must file annually with the secretary of state a sworn statement of all their property, debts and credits, and for this they are to pay to the state one-tenth of one per cent. upon their paid-up capital stock. It is not known just what the revenue from this source will be to the state, but it is estimated that it will be a way up in the millions. This much will be entirely new. The Cole bill extends the operation of the excise tax law to a larger field and includes telegraph and telephone companies, pipe line companies and all "quasi-public" corporations. The Johnston bill takes away from the counties the taxes paid upon the premiums of insurance companies and turns it into the treasury of the state. The receipts from this source to the state treasury is expected to be about

The result of these laws upon the state tax levy is a reduction from 2.89 mills on the dollar to 1.30 mills. Of course the Johnston law will increase the county tax at different rates in different counties but it is expected that the ordinary small tax payer will have to pay less to his county treasurer next year than he has in many years. There are those of course, not in sympathy with the administration who see much fault with the plan.

Just before adjournment, Monday, the senate, on the recommendation of the conference committee, agreed to the house amendment to the Patterson redistricting bill, making Franklin county a district unto itsen, and adding Fairfield county, which has been a part of the Twelfth, to General Grosvenor's, the Eleventh.

The session adopted two resolutions for the purpose of submitting propositions to the people to amend the state constitution. The first is to give the governor the power of veto which is done in most of the different states, and the second is to give the legislature greater authority in the matter of taxation. It is proposed to have a uniform rate of taxation on the same class of subjects.

The passage of the Longworth bill provides a manner for bringing these matters to the attention of the people. It provides that in state convention, the political parties will adopt a principle of being for or against the proposed amendments and that this principal will then become a part of the state ticket. Then the voter who votes a "straight ticket" will vote for or against the amendment as his party has agreed.

The fate of the canals hung for some time in the balances as at the opening of the session there was a prevailing demand to dispose of this state property, sell the land to the railroads. drain the reservoirs, and use the land for agricultural purposes. upon the local option question and one bill after another has been defeated until this year when the old local option measure, this year known as the Beal bill was passed. It was amended however, so that both the saloon and anti-saloon elements are satisfied with its provisions. INNOVATION IN TAXATION.

Administration's Scheme to Readjust Burdens on the People.

LATEST LAWS CLASSIFIED.

In the Summary of the Long Drawnout Session of the Solons Will Be Found Propositions For Important Constitutional Amendments to Be Submitted to the Voters of Ohio and Some Radical Changes In the Existing Statutes.

Columbus, O., May 13.-The Seventy-fifth general assembly, one of the most remarkable sessions of the Ohio legislature, is closed and remains now but a memory; a pleasant one to some, bitter to many. The session has been a long drawn-out one, but the business it has accomplished, while not varied, is perhaps the most important of any assembly in many years.

Besides a general revision of all the statutes of the state, the seventy-fifth general assembly has elected a United States senator, changed the entire taxation scheme of the state, placed a local option law upon the statute books, and submitted two propositions to the people of Ohio to amend their constitution.

The plan of taxation which was advocated in the last state campaign was made a reality. While the new scheme makes a radical change in many ways, it remains yet to be seen whether or not the burden of taxation is really shifted from the shoulders of the farmer and small merchant or not. The general plan of both parties was to make the taxes upon small home owners as light as possible. To this end it was decided to place the burden of taxation for all state purposes upon the large corporations and the county and home taxes upon the county itself.

To this end three bills were introduced and enacted into laws: The Willis bill, the Cole bill and the Johnston bill. The Willis bill provides that all corporations authorized under the laws of Ohio must file annually with the secretary of state a sworn statement of all their property, debts and credits, and for this they are to pay to the state one-tenth of one per cent. upon their paid-up capital stock. It is not known just what the revenue from this source will be to the state, but it is estimated that it will be a way up in the millions. This much will be entirely new.

The Cole bill extends the operation of the excise tax law to a larger field and includes telegraph and telephone companies, pipe line companies and all "quasi-public" corporations. The Johnston bill takes away from the counties the taxes paid upon the premiums of insurance companies and turns it into the treasury of the state. The receipts from this source to the state treasury is expected to be about

The result of these laws upon the state tax levy is a reduction from 2.89 mills on the dollar to 1.30 mills. Of course the Johnston law will increase the county tax at different rates in different counties but it is expected that the ordinary small tax payer will have to pay less to his county treasurer next year than he has in many years. There are those of course, not in sympathy with the administration who see much fault with the plan.

Just before adjournment, Monday, the senate, on the recommendation of the conference committee, agreed to the house amendment to the Patterson redistricting bill, making Franklin county a district unto itsen, and adding Fairfield county, which has been a part of the Twelfth, to General Grosvenor's, the Eleventh.

The session adopted two resolutions for the purpose of submitting propositions to the people to amend the state constitution. The first is to give the governor the power of veto which is done in most of the different states. and the second is to give the legislature greater authority in the matter of taxation. It is proposed to have a uniform rate of taxation on the same class of subjects.

The passage of the Longworth bill provides a manner for bringing these matters to the attention of the people. It provides that in state convention, the political parties will adopt a principle of being for or against the proposed amendments and that this principal will then become a part of the state ticket. Then the voter who votes a "straight ticket" will vote for or against the amendment as his party has agreed.

The fate of the canals hung for some time in the balances as at the opening of the session there was a prevailing demand to dispose of this state property, sell the land to the railroads, drain the reservoirs, and use the land for agricultural purposes. The question was agitated from center to circumference of the state however, and the result was a declaration that the canals should be dedicated as public

For years there has been agitation upon the local option question and one bill after another has been defeated until this year when the old local option measure, this year known as the Beal bill was passed. It was amended however, so that both the saloon and anti-saloon elements are satisfied with its provisions. Under this law forty per cent. of the electors of a municipality may petition for an election on the subject of the saloon and if a majority demand that there shall be no saloon within the municipality, they must all close within thirty days. The same method can be followed to re-establish the saloon. There is no provision made for the wholesale distribution of liquor, however, in "dry" towns, and the law does not apply to breweries in a "dry" town, where their product is sold outside the city limits.

Under the following departments all the important general laws passed by the seventy-fifth general assembly are given:

All told, there were about 1,500 bills introduced during the session. A great many of these were of course of local application, but it was not expected that all of them would become laws. Of the more important defeated measures, the following may be mentioned:

MARSHALL PROTESTED

Numerous Petitions For Improvements Paving Question Up and a Dilemma Presented-Mayor Wants Dog Law Enacted and Tells Why.

Dr. Marshall, of the East End, created quite a stir at the regular meeting of council last evening all the result of a motion recommending that section 116 of chapter 8 be altered to read, "The street commissioner shall be paid $75 per month for his services." The recommendation met the immediate approval of all but Dr. Marshall.

"Gentlemen, if you pass a resolution to that effect, said he, "you will do so in strict opposition to not only a city ordinance, but to a state law governing the question."

The subject then being up for remarks, one of the warmest councilmanic debates ever listened to was instituted. After several members had voiced their sentiments in favor of the question, stating that they thought it perfectly lawful to take the desired action, and if it were not lawful, steps should be taken to make it so. City Solicitor McGarry was asked for his opinion. He stated that upon a previous occasion he had explained the law on that point to council and they would well remember that he gave notification of its legality.

"The law," he said, "states that the salary of a city official cannot be increased or decreased when he is serving his term of office, and as Mr. has not yet been qualified, and therefore is not serving his term of office. it is perfectly legal for council to regulate his salary.'

Dr. Marshall, feeling that his word had been attacked, jumped to his feet and told the solicitor that he was wrong; that he had a motive in making such a statement and that the The Hospital association met last law would prove that a salary could not be altered after a man is elected. The street committee presented a recommendation for opening certain gutters on Pennsylvania avenue and the street commissioner was ordered to have the work done.

CASE IMPORTANT

ON ITS DECISION RESTS FATE OF MANY STREET SEWERS.

Demurrer to Specialty Glass Company ing. Action Overruled-Case to Be Tried.

Lisbon, May 14 .- (Special)-The demurrer in the case of the Specialty court held that there were many irregularities in the proceedings of the council as to the construction of the sewer, such as the calling of the meeting of the council for the consideration of the improvement; the advertising for bids and the construction of the work in part, without this. But the question remained as to whether the glass company would not be prevented from taking advantage of the ed. irregularities in this proceeding.

As the case is to be tried next week, the court concluded to hear the whole matter at that time. This is the tenth suit and is of great interest to East Liverpool, as it will determine whether property holders can be assessed for the sewering of about 27 streets.

EAST END

STREET CAR'S PLUNCE

MUD SAVED IT FROM GOING INTO THE RIVER.

Left the Rails While Going at a High Speed-Another Minor Accident.

The East Liverpool Street Railway company had a run of hard luck yesterday, inasmuch as there were two cars off the track, and both accidents happened when travel was the heaviest. One occurred yesterday afternoon, when a car jumped the track at the entrance to the Jethro switch, but it was not long until it was again placed on the rails.

The worst mishap, and one that came near beinig attended with seserious results, was when car No. 8, in charge of Motorman McDaniels and Conductor Wilbur Allison, westbound, jumped the track at the west end of Laughlin's pottery. That it did not go over the river bank is due to the fact that the ground was very soft, allowing the wheels to become buried. The car was filled with passengers and was running at the regular rate of speed. It is supposed to have jumped the track on account of a low rail.

All wheels were off the track and it required several hours to replace the car. Travel was inconvenienced con- said: siderably as a result of the accident, and this morning a force of men were placed at work repairing the roadbed at this point.

PISTOL WITH A HISTORY

East End Police Officer Presented With a Weapon Used By a Desperado.

A revolver that has been the cause of probably more deaths than any other that is now owned by any person in the East End was yesterday presented to Officer Jay Fisher by James Robinette. That the weapon has a history goes without saying.

A few months ago a friend of Mr Robinette was walking through the mountains of Kentucky and visited parsonage of Rev. George W. Orcutt, a place where a flerce battle once took place between the famous Hatfield-McCoy families. One of the first sights that met his eyes was a revolver of 44 calibre, and which is claimed to have been the property of Thos. Hatfield, who was killed a few years ago during one of these battles for

The pistol was sent to Mr. Robinette a few weeks ago, and it has been looked upon with interest by hundreds. It is of the American "bull dog" variety, and its age has covered it with fact it is the best family liniment I ing on the bone handle, and before the trigger could be pulled the revolver had to be taken apart and thoroughly cleaned. It is a fierce looking revolver and when shot off makes a report like a cannon. Fisher will carry it with him while while on duty.

WOMAN IN TROUBLE

'There is likely to be some fun in the court of Justice L. W. Carman But He Threw It Into the Window of this evening, when the case of Mrs Morrison, of Dixonville, against Mrs Boulton, of the same neighborhood, is called to trial at 7 o'clock.

It is said that Mr. Morrison had possession of a stable in Dixonville which was owned by Mrs. Boulton, and which was locked by Mrs. Boulton, much to the dislike of Mrs. Morrison. Monday evening Mrs. Morrison desired to enter the stable and finding it locked, drinks had been disposed of payment tried to break the lock. When this was discovered by Mrs. Boulton she went to the stable and, it is alleged, struck Mrs. Morrison on the head. Then the court of justice was sought, and a charge of assault and battery entered agaist Mrs. Boulton.

Wintering in Colorado And Utah. The climate of Colorado and Utah has long been world famous, but it is only within recent years that attention has been given to the delightful winter climate of these states. Today physicians all over the United States send their patients to Colorado and Utah to escape the rigors of eastern winters and to benefit by her invigorating atmosphere and health-giving sunshine.

It is not necessary to add an elaborate argument-the conclusion is selfevident and inevitable. The winter climate of Colorado and Utah on the whole presents advantages for the invalid and the pleasure-seeker that cannot fail to command attention.

An erroneous impression prevails that because the Rocky mountains have a high elevation the mercury in the thermometer drops lown below zero in the winter season and stops there, and that the snow mounts up with the altitude. The fact is that the average precipitation of moisture in the lowlands of the mountain region during the entire year is only 14.15 terested person in the sum of $1000 inches. With such average precipitation there is practically no danger of snow blockades on the railroads, save at a few points exposed to drifts and these points have been amply protected. LATEST LAWS CLASSIFIED.

In the Summary of the Long Drawnout Session of the Solons Will Be Found Propositions For Important Constitutional Amendments to Be Submitted to the Voters of Ohio and Some Radical Changes In the Existing Statutes.

Columbus, O., May 13.-The Seventy-fifth general assembly, one of the most remarkable sessions of the Ohio legislature, is closed and remains now but a memory; a pleasant one to some, bitter to many. The session has been a long drawn-out one, but the business it has accomplished, while not varied, is perhaps the most important of any assembly in many years. Besides a general revision of all the statutes of the state, the seventy-fifth general assembly has elected a United States senator, changed the entire taxation scheme of the state, placed a local option law upon the statute books, and submitted two propositions to the people of Ohio to amend their constitution.

The plan of taxation which was advocated in the last state campaign was made a reality. While the new scheme makes a radical change in many ways, it remains yet to be seen whether or not the burden of taxation is really shifted from the shoulders of the farmer and small merchant or not. The general plan of both parties was to make the taxes upon small home owners as light as possible. To this end it was decided to place the burden of taxation for all state purposes upon the large corporations and the county and home taxes upon the county itself.

To this end three bills were introduced and enacted into laws: The Willis bill, the Cole bill and the Johnston bill. The Willis bill provides that all corporations authorized under the laws of Ohio must file annually with the secretary of state a sworn statement of all their property, debts and credits, and for this they are to pay to the state one-tenth of one per cent. upon their paid-up capital stock. It is not known just what the revenue from this source will be to the state, but it is estimated that it will be a way up in the millions. This much will be entirely new.

The Cole bill extends the operation of the excise tax law to a larger field and includes telegraph and telephone companies, pipe line companies and all "quasi-public" corporations. The Johnston bill takes away from the counties the taxes paid upon the premiums of insurance companies and turns it into the treasury of the state. The receipts from this source to the state treasury is expected to be about $600,000.

The result of these laws upon the state tax levy is a reduction from 2.89 mills on the dollar to 1.30 mills. Of course the Johnston law will increase the county tax at different rates in different counties but it is expected that the ordinary small tax payer will have to pay less to his county treasurer next year than he has in many years. There are those of course, not in sympathy with the administration who see much fault with the plan.

Just before adjournment, Monday, the senate, on the recommendation of the conference committee, agreed to the house amendment to the Patterson redistricting bill, making Franklin county a district unto itsen, and adding Fairfield county, which has been a part of the Twelfth, to General Grosvenor's, the Eleventh.

The session adopted two resolutions for the purpose of submitting propositions to the people to amend the state constitution. The first is to give the governor the power of veto which is done in most of the different states, and the second is to give the legislature greater authority in the matter of taxation. It is proposed to have a uniform rate of taxation on the same class of subjects.

provides a manner for bringing these matters to the attention of the people. It provides that in state convention, the political parties will adopt a principle of being for or against the proposed amendments and that this principal will then become a part of the state ticket. Then the voter who votes a "straight ticket" will vote for or against the amendment as his party has agreed. The fate of the canals hung for some time in the balances as at the opening of the session there was a prevailing Administration's Scheme to Readjust demand to dispose of this state property, sell the land to the railroads, drain the reservoirs, and use the land for agricultural purposes. The question was agitated from center to circumference of the state however, and the result was a declaration that the canals should be dedicated as public

For years there has been agitation upon the local option question and one bill after another has been defeated until this year when the old local option measure, this year known as the Beal bill was passed. It was amended however, so that both the saloon and anti-saloon elements are satisfied with its provisions. Under this law forty per cent. of the electors of a municipality may petition for an election on the subject of the saloon and if a majority demand that there shall be no saloon within the municipality, they must all close within thirty days. The same method can be followed to re-establish the saloon. There is no provision made for the wholesale distribution of liquor, however, in "dry" towns, and the law does not apply to breweries in a "dry" town, where their product is sold outside the city limits.

POTTERY NEWS

A few days ago this paper published the statement that the kilndrawers at the convention at Trenton had presented a resolution asking the convention to increase their wages from $1.50 a day to $1.75. In the same resolution it is said the statement was made that the kilndrawers were the poorest paid workmen in any branch of the pottery trade, and the increase desired was within reason. Information has reached this city to the effect that after the resolution was discussed at length, the matter was turned down but by a very close vote.

Another resolution which had been considered is that presented by the saggermakers, in which it was asked that after July 1 the manufacturers stand all the expense for the pugging of clay. Half of this expense is now borne by the saggermakers. While the was taken on it has not been announced.
